A two-weeks court docket, consisting of more than 30 cases, was disposed of Monday by Municipal Court Judge W. K. Lemley.

A forged order for "four fat hens" directed to Beard's Poultry House brought a $25 fine and a one-day jail sentence for Herman Keel, local negro youth.

The name of Mrs. Earl Jarvis of the Diamond Cafe was signed to the forged order. Following conviction in court here, the negro appealed to Hempstead circuit court. Bond was fixed at $110.

A charge of reckless driving against Edward Poindexter was continued until next week.

Clarence Jones and V. E. Butler waived preliminary examination in a companion case of assault with intent to kill and were held for action of Hempstead circuit court. The case grew out of a stabbing affray, police said. Bond for each was set at $250.

J. T. Wood, pleaded guilty to operating a car without license and was fined $70, the fine being suspended on payment of cost.

Charles Cox, possession of untaxed liquor, plea of guilty and fined $5.

H. A. Wilson, charged with assault and battery, was acquitted. The charge was brought by Dennis Frontz. Earl Poindexter and John Ware were convicted of gaming and each was fined $10. Both appealed, bond being fixed at $110 each.

John Perkins, Sandy Blanchard, Alvin McAdoo, Masha Walker, Otha Jones and R. B. Watson were fined $10 each on gaming charges.

Earl Green, Ernest Bennett and Carl James pleaded guilty to charges of drunkenness and each was fined $10. Carl Strunk pleaded guilty to drunkenness and was fined $15.

A charge against Minnie Little for disturbing the peace of Fred Scott was dismissed. Bernice Browning pleaded guilty to disturbing the peace and was fined $2.50.

L. A. Mayton and Cecil Evans pleaded guilty to charges of disturbing the peace. Each was fined $2.50.

Virginia Smith and Charlie Smith were fined $5 each for disturbing the peace of Tom Ferrell. Both appealed to circuit court. Bond for each was set at $110.

John Boyd pleaded guilty to disturbing the peace of Marie Boyd and was fined $2.50. Thelma Jackson pleaded guilty to disturbing the peace of Fred Scott and was fined $1.

Assault and battery charges against Martin Guthrie and Lester Crabb were dismissed.

Elbert Sturgis pleaded guilty to assault and battery charges and was fined $5. The charge was brought by Annie B. Sturgis.

Gladys Burke and Mamie Conway were fined $5 each in a companion case of assault and battery. Both entered guilty pleas.

Tenancy Program Will Begin Soon

New Program Expected to Be in Operation Next Month

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Machinery for the new farm tenancy program just enacted, will be operating by early August, officials of the Agriculture Department said Monday.

It is unlikely, however, that the first loans to help tenants become farm owners will be made before next January. Experience with previous farm programs has shown that four or five months is the minimum time necessary to get all preliminary details out of the way and start handing over the loan money, the officials said.

Designation of the group which will handle the loans to tenants for purchase of land and equipment, officials said, cannot be made until Secretary Wallace returns from his vacation.

The Resettlement Administration is expected to get the job because of its experience in making direct and other loans to more than 500,000 farm families during the past three years.

Crater Inquiry Reopened by Wife

New York's perennial question: "What became of Justice Joseph Crater?" bobbed up again when Mrs. Stella M. ## Spanish Armies Are Rushed on 2 Fronts

Officials Minimize Loss of Brunette to Insurgent Troops

By the Associated Press
Spanish government armies retreated on two fronts Monday in the face of powerful insurgent attacks.

The front west of Madrid was shifted to Villavieja 18 miles from the capital after government troops were driven back from Brunette.

Insurgent communiques said that Francisco Franco's men had taken possession of more than 40 miles in the Albarracin sector east of Madrid.

Government officials minimized the loss of Brunette, saying insurgents won ground only at the loss of many men and that counter attacks can be launched when "the enemy is already exhausted."

The battle has surged back and forth over the little village of Brunette with both sides throwing greater forces of men and weapons into the area than any previous battle. The government abandoned the village once, but then said its troops fought their way back into it.

Rival air forces fought each other and punished opposing ground forces in some of the most extensive operations of the war, bitterly contending for mastery of the air.

Syphilis Plague Attacked in Chicago

Campaign Is Sponsored by the United States Health Service

CHICAGO.—(AP)—Seven thousand physicians were asked Sunday by Dr. Louis Schmidt, head of Mayor Edward J. Kelley's committee for control of venereal disease, to enlist in Chicago's first mass attack on the syphilis plague.

Their assistance was requested after health authorities decided to poll 1,000,000 Chicagoans on the question of whether they would submit to free, secret blood tests by their family doctors to uncover the presence of the disease.

The campaign is sponsored by the United States public health service. Dr. Schmidt said the physicians would be called upon to supply data on all syphilis cases under their care and observation in the four months period ended June 30. They would be requested to withhold the names of their patients.

The city has arranged to have 35 senior medical students, representing all the city's recognized medical schools, available to aid physicians lacking the time to make out reports. The students, after a special course of instruction, also will interpret the data in clinic records. Dr. Schmidt said 2,976 clinical case histories already had been analyzed in the campaign.

YOUTH, MAN DEAD

Tragely Follows Dispute Over Removal of Property

BOONEVILLE, Ark.—(AP)—An argument over a Halloween prank eight months ago resulted Monday in the fatal shooting of Ray Rogers, 25, and John Carolan, 57.

A coroner's jury held that Carolan killed Rogers and then took his own life.

Rogers was said to have been a member of a party removing farm implements from the Carolan barn last October.

The argument over the matter was renewed Monday when Rogers passed the Carolan home and the shooting followed.

Week-End Wrecks Kill 103 Persons

Five Are Killed When Train Hits Car at Lima, Ohio

By the Associated Press
At least 103 persons were killed in traffic accidents in the nation over the week-end. Five died when the auto in which they were riding was struck by a train near Lima, Ohio.

The fatalities came after an announcement by the American Automobile Association awarding certificates of commendation to 40 cities for reducing the number of traffic deaths during the first six months of 1937, below those of the same period in 1936.

Special certificates went to 10 cities for continuing through the first six months of this year a decrease of traffic deaths, begun in 1936.

In the week-end toll, Ohio listed 22 deaths, California, 10 and Pennsylvania, 12. Other traffic deaths reported were: Alabama, 2; Arkansas, 1; Connecticut, 1; Florida, 1; Georgia, 3; Illinois, 4; Indiana, 5; Kansas, 2; Massachusetts, 2; Michigan, 1; Minnesota, 2; Nebraska, 2; New Mexico, 2; South Carolina, 2; Tennessee, 3; Texas, 3; Virginia, 2; Wisconsin, 1; Missouri, 1; New York, 7; North Carolina, 2, and Oregon, 3.

Seventh Paralysis Victim at Memphis

James A. Meeks, 16, Dies After Illness of One Week

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—(AP)—James A. Meeks, 16, son of George K. Meeks, district manager of the United States Tire Dealers Mutual company, died Sunday of infantile paralysis at Municipal Isolation hospital. He was ill one week.

The youth's family formerly lived at St. Louis and Omaha.

It was the seventh death resulting from the disease here this year and the second in two days. William Henry Brown, 13, of Forrest City, Ark., died Saturday. The illness of Brown and that of another child led health authorities to cancel the Crowley Ridge peach festival at Forrest City, July 29.

Best Loans Liquidated
These persons added, however, that it may be difficult for some agencies to increase receipts appreciably because many of their best loans have been liquidated.

The RFC, for instance, has collected $4,440,000, or 71 per cent, of all loans other than those to governmental agencies. Railroads now have replaced banks as the biggest RFC debtors, owing $254,320,000.

Thus far this fiscal year, repayments to lending agencies have fallen short of last year. Since July 1, collections have exceeded outlays by only $17,087,000, compared with a $204,066,000 excess of collections in the corresponding period last year.

A $75,000,000 decline in direct spending for "recovery and relief" has been offset partially by a $55,000,000 increase in expenditures for ordinary government operations. The deficit has reached $194,549,000, compared with $62,729,000 in the same period a year ago.

Lightning Strikes Church, 25 Injured

10 Believed Seriously Hurt—Were Awaiting Church Services

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo.—Twenty-five persons were injured, 10 seriously, when lightning struck a tree in front of a small church near Alton Sunday. Most of the injured were farmers who were awaiting the start of church services.

Ten were taken to a physician's office for treatment. Bud Hensley, Doyle Roberts, Rockford Woods and a five-year-old child were the most seriously injured.

The lightning ripped the large tree and knocked most of those standing nearby unconscious.

Tightening Up of U. S. Credit Seen

Movement by Administration to Balance Budget This Fiscal Year

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Fiscal officials passed the word that President Roosevelt may instruct government credit agencies to tighten their lending and collection policies in an effort to balance the budget this fiscal year.

This move, they said, would supplement the administration's announced program to curtail expenditures.

Mr. Roosevelt has asked department heads to impound 10 per cent of many appropriations. Officials expressed belief that this order, plus increased receipts from credit agencies, materially will reduce or eliminate the $418,000,000 deficit forecast for this fiscal year.

They said that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and similar agencies could improve the fiscal picture by restricting lending policies, by declining to grant extensions of outstanding loans and by liquidating assets.

Best Loans Liquidated
These persons added, however, that it may be difficult for some agencies to increase receipts appreciably because many of their best loans have been liquidated.

The RFC, for instance, has collected $4,440,000, or 71 per cent, of all loans other than those to governmental agencies. Railroads now have replaced banks as the biggest RFC debtors, owing $254,320,000.

The clash involved a hundred police and a crowd of 1,000 strikers and sympathizers massed at the plant's main entrance.

Wage, Hour Bill Is Attacked by C. of C.

Ambiguous and Violates State Rights, Is Contention

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Congressional leaders arranged Monday for immediate senate consideration of the wage-hour bill as the first step in winding up this session.

Speculation as to who would be appointed to fill the vacancy on the supreme court bench rose Monday as it was expected the president would make the appointment before congressional adjournment.

The latest name mentioned was that of Senator Robert LaFollette, Wisconsin progressive.

Bill Is Attacked.
WASHINGTON.—A committee of the United States Chamber of Commerce condemned the wage and hour bill as a measure which violates States' rights and is notable for its ambiguities and uncertainties.

George H. Davis, president of the organization, in transmitting the committee report to the chamber membership, said an amended bill pending in the Senate is as objectionable as the original form.

The altered measure would permit and administrative board to fix minimum wages no higher than 40c an hour and a maximum work week of not less than forty hours.

The special committee said the legislation is so based upon artificial definitions without clear and precise meaning that there would be no assurance of how the provisions would be officially interpreted and applied.

Among other objections, the committee contended the administrative board would not be independent of influence and that large staffs would be required for administrative and enforcement purposes.

The bill is among the few major measures which congressional leaders hope to push through at this session.

Senate leaders say they will try to get a vote in that body by Tuesday night. The House Labor Committee may act on the measure during the week.

Heads Japanese in North China

With China massing its strength in defense of Peiping, Japan sent General Kiyoshi Katsuki, above, by airplane to command the thousands of Nipponese troops pouring into North China daily. This action, reported to come directly from the emperor, places one of Japan's ablest generals in command of its Peiping battle forces.

Foes of Governor Bailey Are Silent

Word as to Whether Mrs. Robinson Will Be Candidate Awaited

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—Political opponents of Governor Carl E. Bailey waited Monday for definite word from Mrs. Evida Gertrude Robinson whether she would run as an independent candidate against the 42-year-old chief executive in a special election to succeed her late husband, Senator Joe T. Robinson.

No announcement was expected until Bailey, given the democratic nomination by the party's state committee here Friday, fixes the date for the special election, sometime between September 14 and November 12.

Mrs. Robinson, seeing only intimate friends at her home here, declined to be interviewed, but her brother, Grady Miller, issued a statement that she "is being urged by a great many people to submit her name to the voters of Arkansas."

Miller said, "pressure for this course of action has increased following action of the state committee" in giving Bailey the nomination rather than call a party primary.

Other possible independent candidates, including Congressman John L. McClellan of Malvern and Internal Revenue Collector Homer Adkins, kept their silence. McClellan returned to Washington Sunday night, promising a statement there "within the next two or three days."

The Arkansas Gazette said, "some persons familiar with Mr. McClellan's activities during the week which he has spent here following Senator Robinson's funeral said that he intends to consult national democratic party leaders on his chances for continued democratic recognition in the event of his candidacy for the senate as an independent."

The question of the political status of any who oppose the democratic nominee caused prolonged discussions. Possibility that Bailey's claim to the party label would be challenged was seen in announcement that the Saline democratic committee would meet Wednesday to discuss election of delegates to a state convention of democrats. State Committeeman Robert Prather of that county, protesting Bailey's nomination Friday, served notice then a state convention would be called to nominate a rival candidate.

"Democratic long active in party affairs," declared that the democratic state committee has power under its rules to deal drastically with county committees if these chose to disregard action taken by the state committee in accordance with party rules and authority conferred by them," the Gazette said.

"The committee is the governing body of the party following since the adjournment of the party convention at which it is appointed, and recognition of new county chairmen and secretaries or even entire county committees by the state group is possible. Belief, however, was expressed that events will not lead to such drastic action."

The newspaper also pointed out that under party rules, independent candidates, their campaign assistants and persons who voted for them "would be barred automatically from participating in the 1938 primary election."

Japan and China Renew Fighting With Air Attack

Japanese Planes Blast Chinese Barracks From Air

NEW JAP ULTIMATUM

Truce of Last Week Shattered by Battle at Langfang

TIENTSIN, China.—(AP)—Japanese army headquarters reported late Monday that a battle was raging at a gate in Peiping's outer wall after Chinese soldiers permitted a half column of Japanese troops to enter the gate and then fired upon them.

Heavy casualties were reported on both inside and outside the gate. Chinese claimed that the Japanese first "attacked" the gate.

By the Associated Press
North China teetered again Monday on the brink of a war as Japanese military planes blasted barracks of the Thirty Eighth Chinese army division.

Commander Katsuki of the Japanese army in North China issued a new ultimatum, demanding further withdrawal of Chinese troops from this area.

Hundreds of Chinese soldiers and civilians were killed in a new battle at Langfang which shattered a week's truce between Japan and China.

Fighting broke out at midnight at Langfang, midway between Peiping and Tientsin. The Japanese, after bombing planes into the attack, then Chinese forces refused to surrender.

The new outbreak followed by only a few hours an ultimatum by the Japanese army to Gen. Chang Tzu-chang to withdraw the 37th Chinese division in accordance with the truce agreement of last Monday.

Both Chinese and Japanese troops were to withdraw under the truce, but the 37th division held to its positions and began erecting new barricades in the Peiping battle area.

Attack on Peiping Predicted
Severe artillery and machine gun fire continued and use of air forces for the first time added a more serious phase to the North China crisis, which resulted when Japanese and Chinese troops clashed on the night of July 7 at Marco Polo bridge 10 miles west of Peiping.

Predictions again were made that the Japanese army eventually would attack Peiping itself.

The Japanese government viewed the situation with extreme gravity, and ordered "all measures" be taken against further Chinese attacks.

The Japanese military command said the fighting began when Chinese attacked Japanese soldiers who were repairing military telephone wires.

The 37th Chinese division of the 29th army is the most militant group of those opposing Japanese "special economic interests" in North China and has been the one most frequently involved in clashes with the Japanese.

Severe Heat Wave
PEIPING.—(AP)—Chinese and Japanese troops continued to confront each other in menacing attitudes west of Peiping.

A withering heat wave gripped the North China plain, with temperatures above 100 degrees Fahrenheit, but cause no let up in vigilance on either side.

Japanese made fresh accusations that the Chinese 37th division, which its commander had agreed to move to the south, still was strengthening its positions west of Peiping.

"Fresh aggravations must be expected" while this continues," a Japanese spokesman said.

Japanese said that envoys from the central Chinese government at Nanjing were arriving in Peiping and urging North China leaders to stand against Japanese pressure. Chief of these was said to be Gen. Hsiung Ping, vice chief of staff.

Two "Good Oldtimers" Still in the Harness

WITH regular airplane schedules now linking North America directly with every continent, with streamlined trains steaming on faster schedules from coast to coast, and with science almost daily bringing out some new device to increase the speed of communications, it is almost too easy to scoff at the occasional brave philosopher who longs for "the good old days."

The fact is that several of the mainstays of the "good old days," along with much of the atmosphere of that hazy era, are still in evidence. The proof was contained in two recent news stories, bearing witness to the survival of at least two transportation vehicles which had their beginnings when the nation was only a strippling.

ONE told of the greatest single month of June traffic in the history of the Great Lakes. For that month this year, the Sault Ste. Marie ship canal recorded more than 14,000,000 tons of freight shipping, amounting to about 100,000 tons more than the previous record, established during the boom year of 1929.

The list of items included in this shipping is significant too—lumber, flour, wheat and other grains; copper, scrap and pig iron; steel, stone, coal, petroleum products, automobiles and general merchandise—all commodities or material necessary to most individuals sometime during their daily lives. And not to be overlooked are the 4000 passengers who, apparently, simply preferred that kind of travel.

The other item concerned the activities of ferry boats along the Ohio river. Eight miles downstream from Cincinnati, a man has just launched a new side-wheeler to ply a route which has been in operation 121 years. But his case is not exceptional. There are 20 ferries plying the Ohio at points between Ashland and Carrollton, Ky. And the total, when this kind of transportation is figured in from all the navigable rivers of the union, might be shocking to those who scoff at old-time methods.

How long these ferries may continue to defy time is a matter of guessing. They make no challenge to the faster moving age, because they merely fill the gaps left in the new traffic arteries, and usually serve communities which can not afford bridges.

IT IS interesting, then, to estimate how many other "vestigial remains" from the past have hung on through the thick and thin of twentieth century progress.

Probably there are many of them. Beside our sleek new transportation facilities, the old side-wheelers and the lake boats may appear woefully outdated. But they are still delivering people and they are delivering the things people need. And really, that's all they require for their claim to recognition.

Trotsky On Vacation

"TIRED of civilization," Leon Trotsky, arch-disciple of Bolshevism, has left his haven in Mexico City to be gone "a long time" on an extensive fishing trip. His destination was unrevealed. Regardless of the varying opinions which this news will inspire, Trotsky's vacation is bound to be an interesting experiment, for himself at least.

For one thing, he will have a chance to observe how his own inimitable brand of "civilization" works out when it is not contaminated by association with the adulterated varieties in vogue with most modern nations.

Few really will care how long Trotsky stays away on his fishing trip. It will mean a sad dearth of quips for the columnists, and possibly will reduce the volume of Stalin's treason trials. The only fearful thing about it all is that Trotsky will come back—dragging a new prize string of red herrings.

Kidney Stones, One of Oldest Known Diseases, Due to Body Salt Deposits

(No. 275)
One of the oldest conditions known to medicine is the formation of stones in the kidneys and in the bladder. These are referred to in the oldest medical writings.

For some time it has been realized that kidney stones are more common among people living in certain districts. This has been alleged to be due to the soil of the country and particularly to the amount of lime in the water. Today it is believed that such factors are relatively unimportant.

Kidney stones consist of deposits of various salts which naturally come from the bladder. Ordinarily these salts remain in solution and pass out of the body with the urine. Kidney stones form when the salts are deposited. In most instances it is believed that some minor infection causes a disturbance which results in the formation of a stone. Occasionally, the reaction of the urine may be such that certain salts are not held in solution.

Some people are convinced that a lack of vitamins in the diet is responsible—particularly a lack of vitamin A. It has been noticed that frequently, when a stone is present, the diet is poor and monotonous rather than rich. Men suffer more with kidney stones than do women. Here again there seems to be no real reason for this variation.

A stone in the kidney appears quite often after a person has been kept in bed at rest for a long time, such as when he has a fracture or some severe disease. It is believed that this may be due to the fact that the kidneys do not drain well when the patient has been kept on his back for a long period. There also seems to be no doubt that various abnormalities of the kidneys may be associated with the formation of stones. Any obstruction to the flow of fluid from the kidney will lead to a damming back of the materials and a deposit of crystals.

Vacation Benefit Justifies Cost—Go Somewhere If at All Possible

What is a vacation? Rest? Pleasure? Lolling in a hammock with nothing to do but listen for the meal gong that means more hot biscuits and fried chicken?

No, that is ideal, perhaps, but not necessarily a vacation. The word means "a cessation of regular tasks."

A break in monotony. A change.

So do try to think up something, if you can, that will come within the limits of your purse, even though it means to do without home comforts. Go and fight mosquitoes if you have to, sleep on cots, and learn the virtue of candles. When it's over, you'll go home refreshed, because home looks so good, and past hardships, so called, will provide humorous memories to boast about.

Finding a Suitable Place

Many people are fearful of going away, because of cost. Others have a certain amount to divert toward a vacation but do not know where to go, or how to go about inquiring. So a few things should be borne in mind. First, only basic expenses are going on at home while you are away. House money is house money everywhere, and except for the rental of a small shack or cottage, suitable to your purse, and transportation for the family, other things even up surprisingly well.

Next, either adverse for what you want, naming price, or write to the

Here is a volume that is not concerned primarily with the theory, the history or the large aspects of the labor movement, but rather with the reactions of a small town's citizenry to a strike in the town's one big industry, its shoe factory.

The book's action, and it is there in generous doses, moves smoothly. There is suspense aplenty and some of the scenes carry a terrific punch. The things that happen have happened in many places the past year.

While Jeter has done a good job on the strikers themselves, he is even better when dealing with Waverly (no doubt his own Moberly, Mo.) and its people in general—the clothing store proprietor, the man who runs the book shop, the garbage man, the mayor, the political boss, the harlot, the housewife, and all the others.

While the story is forceful, it rambles most of the way. There are plenty of loose ends. The reader sits in on numerous city council meetings, arbitration pow-wows, saloon fights, and even a couple of seductions. He meets at least 50 characters through the book's 300-odd pages. But somehow he remembers them all.

If you're looking for vitriolic criticism of Messrs. Lewis or Green or Girdler or Roosevelt, you won't find it in "The Strikers." But you may

"Didn't I tell you, Cal, Secret Service men don't go around advertising themselves," but I got an idea. The first chance I have a moment to myself, I'm going to do some investigating on my own. If those men belong to the Secret Service, Jigger and Rocco will be getting wise to their presence, or I miss my guess. . . . It's too bad I never finished my talk with Dick about Jigger. . . . started once and he acted as though he'd never heard the name. . . . I asked him why he seemed so upset when I mentioned it before. . . . he said he thought I spoke of someone else. . . . a man who'd worked for his aunt for many years and disappeared.

SATURDAY: A letter from Gall, postmarked Hillsdale. . . . she must be on vacation. . . . here's what she writes and did I get a shock:

"Suppose you'll be amazed, old girl, when I tell you I'm on my honeymoon. . . . so I've beaten you to it. Pat got a raise. . . . going to a small New England town as special representative for his company. His vacation due, we decided to get married. . . . we'll never be rich like you and Dick, but are we happy! Saw Dick today. . . . he looked worried. . . . surely you haven't given him the gate?"

"Heard confidentially Angela's about to skip the country. . . . rumor says she's sent a fortune ahead of her. . . . wonder if I Luce will confiscate it before she catches up with it. . . . they say Roger's on holiday. . . . wonder if you'd feel too badly if someone told you he was secretly married to Angela? Am taking that with two grains of salt. . . . those two were never made for each other.

"Suppose you know the Ace-High Club is closed. . . . certain important people lost too much money there. . . . lots of gossip about Rocco. . . . his ears must be burning. Pat's waiting to take me out in a speedboat. . . . be sure to tell me where your heart is." No word from Dick. . . . can't understand that. . . . not that I really miss him. . . . in some ways I'm happier. Oh, what's the use of pretending? I'll never love Dick though I live a thousand years. . . . even if I marry him it will just be a marriage of convenience. . . . Peter's future will be assured. . . . I'll have a huge income, for Miss Pegler insists on setting a lot of money on me, and there's Mrs. Fenwick calling. . . . what can she want at this time of night?"

Chamber of Commerce in any of the vacation districts and ask for information about places to stay. Farmers often place their names on lists of those who are willing to take summer people. Cottages are usually listed for rental with either real estate agents or Boards of Trade or Chambers of Commerce in the nearest town. Get out your maps, buy a few stamps, sending self-addressed stamped envelope with each inquiry, and see what happens.

Children Love Roughing It
If the rent of the cottage is higher than you are ready to pay, double up with friends, and squeeze your quarters—a floor mattress isn't a bad place to sleep. The children will love the plan.

In summer, and fall and winter will be along soon enough with school and what-not to tie you all down. Jim gets only two weeks' vacation, no doubt, and maybe he'll grumble about camping, but the change will do him more good than stying at home listening to the same old radio and locking the same old doors every night.

Be willing to rough it, as well as the children who are natural born sports. They need a change and the great pity is that every boy and girl cannot get a taste of the woods once a year. Some day, perhaps, cities will include a summer outing as part of the educational program. To me it is more important than fine buildings and unessential extras in learning.

One thought more. Can you live in a tent? Then why not try it? Choose a quiet spot, hunt up the owner of the ground, and pay him his price, which will be small, for permission and pure drinking water, promising to keep the property neat and unharmed.

There are so many possible ways to get out under the sky, to give the children a chance of feeling the ground under their bare feet and of learning what the big world is made of.

Labor Strike Effect on the Small Town.

In these days when the strife of labor troubles strikes to the core of the American community, it is interesting to lay hands on such a book as Goetz Jeter's "The Strikers" (Frederick A. Stokes, $2.50).

Here is a volume that is not concerned primarily with the theory, the history or the large aspects of the labor movement, but rather with the reactions of a small town's citizenry to a strike in the town's one big industry, its shoe factory.

A Stand-in's Dream in Hollywood—Being Ordered to Sleep on the Job

HOLLYWOOD.—Short takes: In the middle of a hot and hard day's work, one of the Ritz Brothers called over their stand-ins and cracked, "Why don't you guys go home and do some sleeping for us?" So they did.

Dick Foran is going around sneering at pessimists. "I've been married nearly six weeks," he says. "And still there are people who maintain that Hollywood marriages don't last!"

Freddie Bartholomew suddenly became aware the other day that his is the only male star's dressing room in a wing of a building occupied by feminine players. Kicked up quite a fuss about it. Now he's in the wing with Spencer Tracy, Clark Gable, and Alton Jones.

Mr. Bartholomew has grown up. This is the time of year that sweltering stars must pose in fur coats for advance fashion pictures. But don't feel too sorry for 'em; they wear only scanties underneath.

Sophie Tucker will stay here. She's looking for a house with a swimming pool—a great, big swimming pool.

And Ruby Zioncheck, widow of the late congressman, is taking a house in Beverly Hills. She also is taking a new name—Lynne Molton—for her attempt to crash the movies.

Seeing Their Lawyer

for the reading, understand a bit better why we have had labor troubles for so long and what the prospects are for their continuation.

Stunt-man note: Doubling for Edie Cantor in "Ali Baba Goes to Town," Bob Rose allowed himself to be run down, and over, by a lot of Arab horsemen. Got $500 for the job and wasn't even scratched. Cantor, though, in carrying on the sequence, will be shown badly mugged and trampled.

Metro is spending an extra quarter of a million dollars on "Broadway Melody of 1938." Wasn't just right when they sneak-previewed it recently, so it's back in the studio for expensive and extensive retakes.

Universal's "The Road Back" also is laid up for repairs. Representatives of Germany were furious over the conclusion, which showed Germany training and arming for another year.

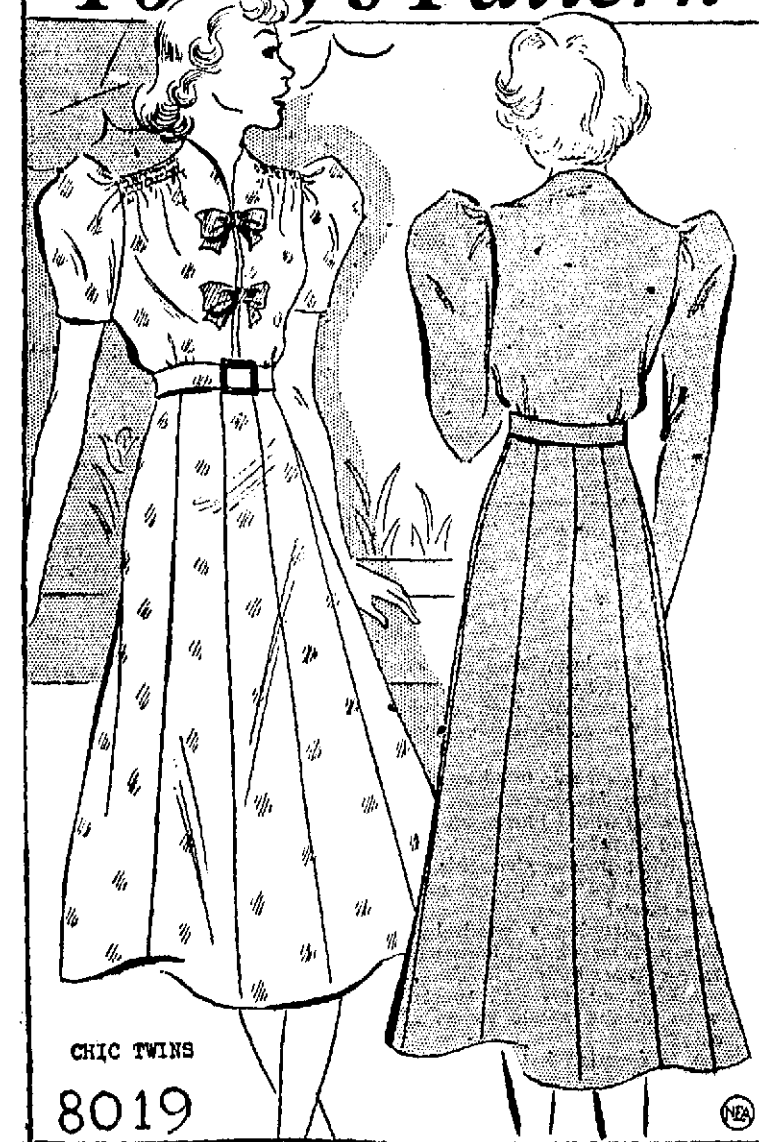

So they're cutting that part and adding more love interest. The result probably will be spinach.

New racket: Lots of tourists are being defrauded here by men who promise to arrange tours through studios, including visits to the sets. They claim influence with certain studio guards, and for advance payment of $10 promise to have their customers met near the studio and taken in through the motor gate.

But nobody ever meets the victims. Color-Schemed Dreams
A color-film executive suffers from insomnia, and his doctor provides red, blue, and yellow sleeping pills so his dreams will be tinted. "The Bride Wore Red," Joan Crawford's new picture, isn't being filmed in Technicolor, so all her gowns but one are blue.

Blind crayfishes, found in Ozark caves, have developed long hairs on their claws which act as sense organs and take the place of eyes in detecting prey.

Today's Pattern

FOR luncheons, bridge or tea, wear a smartly simple dress like the one sketched. It is at its best in sheer chiffon, voile or Swiss organdy. Made up in one of these fabrics, you'll enjoy the dress because of its coolness more than any other in your wardrobe. It's a young-looking dress with a shirred bodice that gives trimness to this flattering design. The full skirt and sleeves emphasize the smallness of the waistline and give a youthful swing to the whole silhouette. With black strongly in the fashion picture for midseason wear, try black chiffon trimmed in white.

Pattern 8019 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20 and 40. Corresponding bust measurements 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 14 (32) requires 4 3-8 yards of 35-inch material and 1 1-4 yards of ribbon for trimming.

For a complete selection of late dress designs, send for the summer pattern book. It's 15 cents if purchased separately. Or, if you want to order it with the pattern above, send in only an additional 10 cents.

To secure your pattern with step-by-step sewing instructions, send 15 cents, in coin with your name, address, style number and size to Today's Patterns, 11 Sterling Place, Brooklyn, N. Y., and be sure to MENTION THE NAME OF THIS NEWSPAPER.

There is never a rose in all the world But it makes some green spray sweet-er.

There is never a breeze in all the sky But makes some bird wing feather; There's never a star but brings to heaven

Some silver radiance tender; And never a rosy cloud but helps To crown the sunset splendor; No robin but may thrill some heart, His dawnlike gladness voicing; God gives us all some small, sweet way To set the world rejoicing.

For there is a star behind the cloud, There is a rose beneath the snow, There is a little brook around The bend of any road you go; Daylight lingers in the dark, Life holds a dream that will come true, And somehow, somewhere, sometime Things will come right for me and you. —Selected.

Court Bill Halted by Congress Split

Chances for Action at This Session at Remote Stage

WASHINGTON.—(P)—Chances for swift action on President Roosevelt's program to revamp the executive branch of the government has all but vanished because of a split among legislators.

The sharp conflict in opinion was disclosed when the joint congressional committee on governmental reorganization made public the record of a three-month series of secret hearings. Committee members have not even approached an agreement on any of the principal points involved.

The report strengthened the widespread belief the whole subject would be delayed until next session of congress.

Major disagreements were on expansion of the civil service; reorganization of the general accounting office; and subordination of independent agencies, such as the interstate commerce commission, to executive departments.

The committee appeared to be most nearly agreed on these sections of the program:

1. Establishment of two new departments—welfare and public works—to take over functions of several temporary New Deal agencies and some long-established units, such as the bureau of public health and the children's bureau.
2. Appointment of six assistants to the president, to serve as secretaries and contact men with the departments.

In New York

By George Ross

Hollywood Stars in "Big Parade" to New York

NEW YORK.—Paul Harrison could give you a better account of how they behave themselves in Hollywood. But here is how the talkie satellites carry on when they are on furlough in New York:

Luise Rainer makes it a practice to assemble her plainest clothes for a Manhattan safari, in the hope of being inconspicuous.

Myrna Loy wears horn-rimmed spectacles while she roves Manhattan's streets and manages to evade public attention as much as is possible.

Sylvia Sydney has a penchant for the Cuban night clubs. She happens to be an excellent rhumba dancer.

Gail Patrick favors only the Stork club during her furloughs in New York, for she is an old friend of the proprietor, Sherman Billingsley.

Mae West, curiously enough, often cancels trips to New York because, she says, she fears the crowds. Yet Mae loitered in Manhattan a long while before she went Hollywood.

Martha Raye, whose professional origin was on West 52nd street where she was the soloist with Louis Prima's swingsters, went right back to that thoroughfare, after she returned—a full-fledged Hollywood celebrity.

Greta Garbo has never stopped at any but the St. Moritz Hotel during her brief sojourns here. It is said that the manager of the hotel has three fictitious names on file and when he receives a reservation signed by one of those noms de plume, he knows the reticent and elusive Garbo is coming.

On a Bat—At Ball Park

Wesley Duggles, the director of Claudette Colbert among other stars, will duck business engagements, on his Manhattan trips, to reach the ball park on time.

Paul Muni prefers to go down to Second Avenue, sit at a counter in the Cafe Royal, order a cafe au lait, and reminisce in Yiddish with the actors he knew when his career began—as Muni Weisenfreund.

Cary Grant has been seen frequenting the sepien places, for he knows how to dance a dervish around a true Harlemian tune.

Miriam Hopkins inexplicably stops at a midtown hotel, though her own home, on the brink of Sutton Place, is one of the most attractive in the neighborhood.

Crowded Hours for All

Freddie March uses up a large part of his Manhattan time looking up old friends.

Marion Davies' chief occupation, while scouring the city, is turning up at Broadway's quota of plays.

Janet Gaynor, in dread of public adulation while she is on vacation, avoids the press of the crowd as much as is humanly possible. The writer recalls a cocktail party at which she was the guest of honor when it was necessary to search for her among a group of guests who didn't even know to whom they had been talking.

The lady who cannot—or will not—enter Manhattan without the fanfare and ballyhoo that is attendant upon such celebrity, is Marlene Dietrich. She invariably is the center of at least one mob scene while she is in town.

When a hunter kills a doe, he destroys the potential production of about 130 deer in the next 10 years; when he kills a buck, he destroys only a single animal.

Dallas, Texas, is the guest of her sister Mrs. Carl Jones.

Mrs. Walter E. Jones has returned from a weeks visit with friends and relatives in Poteau, Okla. She was accompanied by her daughters Mrs. F. N. Steed of Little Rock and Mrs. W. J. McDow of Minden, La.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Y. Yarbrough announce the marriage of their daughter, Pauline, to Reece Chambliss. The wedding took place at Arkadelphia, July 25, with the Rev. B. B. Moore officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Luck and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Arnold returned Saturday night from a vacation trip spent in Dallas, Houston, Galveston and New Orleans and other points.

Mr. and Mrs. Gomer E. Jones announce the birth of a son, James Price Jones, at Julia Chester hospital Monday morning. Mother and son are reported to be doing nicely.

"That's the Way to Hollywood"

If talent runs in families, Shirley Temple had better look to her laurels, for 6-year-old Vivienne Solol, niece of famed opera star Lily Pons, is on the way to challenge her. Vivienne's mother, Mme. Nanette Pons Solol, points out the way to Hollywood for the "French Shirley Temple" on arrival at New York from Paris.

No Reading of Papers on Coney Island Beach

NEW YORK.—(P)—It's against the law to read a newspaper on Coney Island beach, offending thousands were cautioned Sunday by uniformed sanitation department inspectors.

Launching a campaign again beach litter, 100 inspectors crawled and elbowed through Coney's 1,100,000 visitors seeking relief on the crowded sands, and seized the papers.

Those sitting on papers were told they were littering the beach. Those reading were told they probably intended to litter the beach. There were no arrests. All papers were surrendered peacefully. It was too hot to argue.

Magazine and book readers were not molested.

In the days of the Mayflower, only the class of gentlemen from England such as ministers, physicians and their wives, bore the title of Mr. and Mrs. Others were called "goodman" or "goodwife."

Peep Show Girls Told to "Clothe or Close"

DALLAS.—(P)—It was "clothe or close—panties or jail" at the Pan-American exposition peep shows Sunday night.

Saturday night Vice Squad Chief Roy Richburg, and his men took in the shows and peeped. Sunday they talked. Forcefully. With words like "indecent" and "vulgar."

Sunday night the girls wore more raiment than had been their custom. They didn't like jails, they said.

Third Man Handy

BROOKLYN.—Burleigh Grimes of Brooklyn, who is three deep in left fielders, is having to use his third-string man, Jimmy Bucher. Gibby Brack has a twisted knee. Tom Winstett sprained his left wrist.

Height of a mountain is calculated by the line of a spirit level. The aneroid barometer sometimes is used, but the former method is considered the most accurate.

Deep Test Is Sunk in Buckner Area

McKean No. 1 Test Is Spudded in Sunday Afternoon

BUCKNER, Ark.—The McKean No. 1 of the Standard Oil Company spudded in Sunday afternoon.

The well is located one mile east of Buckner and has a contract depth of 7,500 feet with an additional depth of 2,500 feet if necessary. Leasing and royalties are reported very active. Casing was to be set Sunday night and drilling will start Monday.

Although paupers may not vote in Delaware, Maine, Massachusetts, Missouri, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Texas, Virginia, and West Virginia, no state officially has ruled that persons on relief are in the pauper class.

Hornsby's Next Stop Cincinnati; Dressen to Giants as Terry Aid

Street Ready If Bottomley Fails as St. Louis Pilot

By HARRY GRAYSON
Sports Editor, NEA Service

There is more to the latest Rogers Hornsby story than his being thrown out again, this time like a sacrifice bunter.

From an unimpeachable source it is learned that Hornsby's next stop will be Cincinnati, where he is to succeed Charley Dressen next spring.

The same authority has Dressen going to New York, where after a season as coach and chief assistant to Bill Terry, he will become manager of the Giants in 1939.

Donald Barnes, president of the Browns, brought in Gabby Street as Jim Bottomley's right-hand man in order to have someone handy next spring in the event that Sunny Jim doesn't relish the deep digging in St. Louis, or that conditions merit another change.

Being fired by the Browns in mid-season certainly is enough to mark the finish of the ordinary manager, but there never was anything commonplace about Hard-Built Hornsby.

The Rajah has more baseball lives than a game has innings.

They wrote his obituary in August, 1932, when, broken by misfortune, he was tossed out by the Chicago Cubs when he least expected to be.

It was that winter that Branch Rickey, whose scalp he once demanded, took Hornsby back into the St. Louis Cardinals fold, and who in 1934 engineered his bow in the American League as manager of the Browns.

Giles Sponsoring Hornsby

A product of this same Cardinal organization, Warren C. Giles, would be sponsoring Hornsby in Cincinnati.

Hornsby's American League ouster in St. Louis was as sudden and mysterious as were his sale to the Giants by the Cardinals, his transfer from the Polo Grounds to Braves' Field, and his not exactly honorable discharge by the Cubs.

Only a week before, Barnes expressed complete confidence in Hornsby.

However, the facts were that the new owners of the Browns were looking for an excuse and Hornsby was fed up.

Barnes & Co. may have heard of the Cincinnati urge.

Also Hornsby's boss playing, which has had him in trouble before, may have brought the thing to a head, although I understand that the gee-goes have been running for him all right of late, and that he had $200 on a $32 plug just the other day.

Barnes & Co. expected more than Hornsby could get out of a second division club.

The new proprietors of the Browns didn't spend a quarter to help Hornsby. The Rajah himself made deals calculated to bolster the Browns, and picked up Catcher Benny Huffman at Ray Doan's Hot Springs baseball school. Indeed, Hornsby's sales and deals have kept the Browns' heads above water for three years, and his presence helped the outfit as a gate attraction on the road.

Bottomley Humanizes Browns

Hornsby's iron hand failed to club mediocre talent out of its tracks.

Perhaps the likable Jim Bottomley and his sunny disposition will fare better. Certainly, Bottomley will humanize the Browns.

Sunny Jim doesn't have to worry, though. Base ball was good to him while he was first busing and helping to bat the Cardinals to four pennants and two world championships. He has 127 more fun at Bottomley, Mo. property in Nakomis, Ill., and is worth $100,000. He wanted to retire a year ago, explaining that he didn't want to be a leech.

As for Dressen's transfer to New York, Terry's contract as manager expires next year, and he long has aspired to devote all of his time to the front office. He long has had great faith in Dressen's judgment of players and managerial skill.

And Giles, not long removed from the Cardinal chain, like everybody else in it, still regards Hornsby as a managerial genius, particularly in the heat of battle with a club that is headed somewhere. He also respects the Rajah as one of the best appraisers of baseball talent in the business. A graduate of the Cardinal school, he is in favor of strict discipline.

Backed by a superior officer of that type, the cold, unemotional, and self-centered Hornsby might make some headway in Cincinnati.

Anyway, he'll continue to stand or fall on his own opinions.

Tender-Hearted

CHICAGO—Sunny West, St. Louis outfielder, held up a game here recently to pick up a lame little bird and carry it to the safety of the clubhouse.

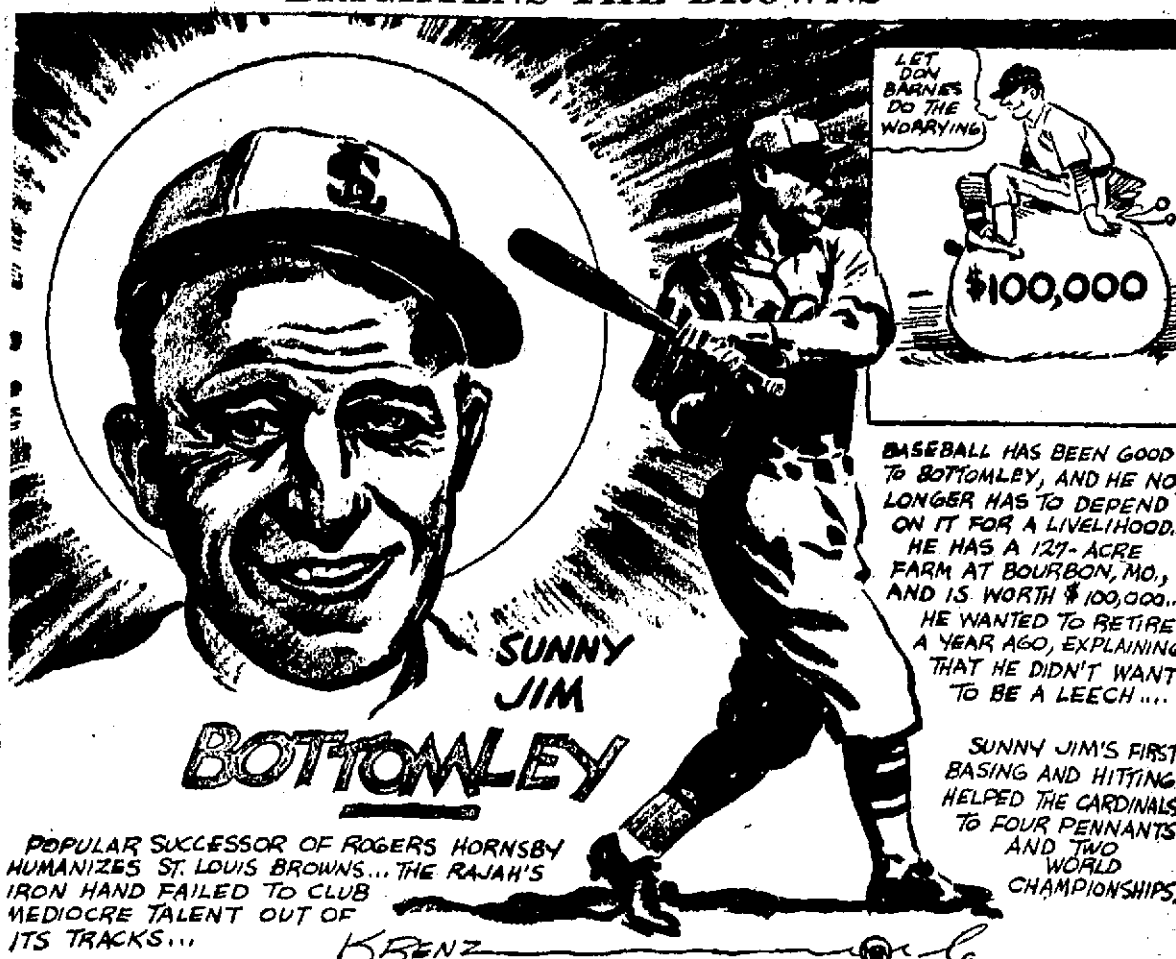

Van's Superstitious

BROOKLYN—Van Mungo, Brooklyn Dodgers' fireball flinger, flies into a furious rage when anybody mentions the score or the inning or touches his glove when he is pitching.

Advice for Whitehead

NEW YORK—Henry Fubian, Polo Grounds ground-keeper, says that Burgess Whitehead of the Giants would be a better hitter if he swung from the left side of the plate. Fubian advised the late Ross Young to switch.

Umpires Most Important But Least Appreciated of Baseball Figures

Arbiters, Unsullied by Scandal, Get Little Cash and Credit for Their Part in Making Game Big Business

This is the third of a series of six articles on "The Other Side of Baseball."

By RICHARD MCCANN
NEA Service Sports Writer

Perhaps the most important and certainly the least appreciated hired hands in baseball are the umpires.

The fans roar approval of Charley Gehring's double-play pivot. They get hysterical about Dizzy Dean's goings-on. They elow and elamor like women at a board-counter for Joe DiMaggio's autograph. And they go away from the ball park uttering the praises of Carl Hubbell's fine day's work.

But have you ever had a man in the next chair at the barber shop turn over and exclaim, "Say, wasn't that a swell-umpired game today? Did you ever see Bill Klem turn in a finer job?"

No, you never have heard any such talk. And, unfortunately, you probably never will because an umpire considers that he has done his best job when you go away unaware that he was in the stadium.

But, though they never hear any of the cheers and don't get into the headlines except when they are conked with a pop bottle thrown by the village idiot, the umpires are the backbone of baseball. Upon their unquestioned honesty, the billion-dollar industry is built.

Must Be Fearless and Fair

Forever on the hunt for talent, the major leagues are most careful in their selections. Umpires are sought, bought, farmed out, and trained much the same as players.

However, the qualifications are so exacting, and the pay so small considering their responsibilities, and the job so thankless, that the field is built.

Tommy Connolly, as chief-of-staff of American League umpires, and Ernie Quigley, as chief of the National's arbiters, are in charge of the search for and instruction of young umpires.

"When we hear of a promising minor league umpire," says Mr. Connolly, "the first thing we do is to pry into his private life—we must learn whom he associates with, watch what he does away from the ball park, see if he pays his bills.

"If he is honest and reliable we then turn down to look him over in action. He must be fearless and fair. We don't want men who hold grudges. The umpire can't think about what happened last season, in the last game, in the last inning, on the last pitch. Each decision is based on each play—what has gone before must be forgiven and forgotten."

Farmed Out Same as Players

Knowledge of the rules and umpiring technique are not demanded of the prospective candidate.

"We can teach him those things," says Connolly. "If he meets our mental requirements we'll buy him (purchase price runs from $100 up to $500 depending on classification of league) and farm him out to a higher loop for seasoning. We like to have a man work a couple seasons in a Class AA league because there he meets the old-time big leaguers and gets good experience."

The American League has about a half dozen rookies farmed out right now. Among them are Eddie Rommel, Pat Gharriy, and George Piggins, former league stars.

"We like to hire as many of these deserving fellows as possible," says Mr. Connolly. "These three like the work, but a player seldom makes a good umpire. Fred Marberry, for one, didn't like having to give up his friends among the players."

The umpire, you see, doesn't travel with players, not stop in the same hotel, and avoids all social contact with them to prevent charges of favoritism and, of course, arguments.

He doesn't, however, lead the lonely life you may suppose. Most big league umpires are entertaining companions with a bright sense of humor and have friends all over the circuit.

The rookie umpire's pay is $3600. After five years this has mounted to about $7000. Outstanding umpires like Bill Klem will get as high as $12,000.

Unlike the players, the umpires must buy all their equipment (mask, chest protector, uniforms, shoes) and they have to pay their meals and hotel bills while on the road about 175 days. Figure this up at, say, $7.50 per day and you can see the poor old umpire doesn't have much left.

He would seem perfect prey for the money-waving gambler. But don't whisper anything like that around one of the 24 stalwart, clear-eyed gentlemen.

He won't call you out—he'll knock you out into the middle of the next inning.

NEXT: Groundkeepers, clubhouse caretakers, and bat boys.

Father, 40, Admits Auctioning Love of 2 Young Daughters

Girls, 13 and 16, Held in White Slavery by Barber

TO FACE 3 CHARGES

Father, Held in Miami Jail, to Be Arraigned Monday

MIAMI, Fla. — Authorities drew charges Sunday against a 40-year-old father who, they said, admitted holding his two young daughters in white slavery and bartering their love to the highest bidder.

County Solicitor Robert R. Taylor said the man admitted he forced his two daughters, 13 and 16, to conduct themselves immorally.

The County Solicitor said he would file two incest charges against the father Monday, and a third count charging a crime against nature.

The father, who works as a barber, has indicated he will plead guilty to the statutory charges. He was being held in Miami's skyscraper jail on an open charge of investigation. Authorities withheld his name.

Girls' Revel Case

The County Solicitor said the father gave no explanation for his acts. Taylor learned details of the case from the two girls, one of whom was employed as a curb service attendant at a barbecue stand, and from the father.

According to Taylor, the father allegedly admitted accepting small sums from men who were permitted to associate with the girls at their home.

Reports spread that the man's neighbors were planning a lynching party.

To Be Arraigned Monday

Martens said he never had investigated anything so horrible. The father's statement, he said, was a terrible story.

The father will be arraigned Monday in Criminal Court. The girls have been taken to the Juvenile Home at Kendall.

Taylor announced he would push prosecution of the father to the utmost.

"An example will be made of this man," the County Solicitor said.

According to Taylor, the father came to Miami in February, 1936, from Virginia. He since has been employed here as a barber.

Waterworks Being Installed at G. S. Smith Home at Ozan

OZAN—(Special)—The old May homestead, house and land, north of the St. Paul church, owned for the past few decades by Ed Goodlett, was sold to J. F. Stuart, last week. At the death of his wife, Mrs. Maggie Goodlett, a short time ago, Mr. Goodlett was left alone in his home. He will continue to live in the old homestead, since it has been sold.

J. F. Stuart and family will occupy the Goodlett home soon. They have been living in the Barrow house, north of the B. A. Barrow residence.

The old Goodlett home is one of the oldest homes in the Ozan community. It was built many years ago by the pioneer family of Mays when they settled near Ozan. It was the childhood home of Mrs. Sallie Green, aged 89, Ozan's oldest living woman citizen. Many historic memories linger around it. It has played its part in the building of the settlement in which it is located.

G. S. Smith is having water works installed in his home. The work is being done by Jimmy May, of the Southwestern Light Co. Smith is having an electric pump set up in the well on the back porch of his home. The water will be piped throughout his home and the home of his son, Jerome Smith.

The latter is building a very attractive English-type bungalow on the lot west of his father's residence. Both homes will be equipped with baths and sewers.

The Rev. G. W. Robinson conducted regular preaching services at the Ozan Methodist church at 11 a. m. Sunday. The text chosen was the 23rd Psalm, with emphasis on the third verse: "He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness."

There were no services Sunday night as the Rev. Mr. Robinson began the meeting at the Washington Methodist church. He has been assisting in a meeting at Sardis, which closed Sunday.

L. J. Robins was in Hot Springs, Saturday, for medical treatment of a skin blemish on his inner lip. Misses Ethel Robertson and Jeanette City, of Hope, spent Sunday with home folk.

F. P. City was a business visitor in Hope, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Robins and J. K. Green motored to Gurdon, Sunday.

Milam Green visited friends in Waldo, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Willie May of England visited Mrs. Sallie Green, Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. May were in Ozan for the funeral of Mr. May's mother, Mrs. Sallie May.

Many of the Ozan people attended the peach festival in Nashville.

H. P. Robertson and Shirley Robins were visitors in Hope Saturday.

The Rev. G. W. Robinson and son, George, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Smith.

IT'S A RACKET!

by CLAUDE STUART HAMMOCK

An exposé of the clever schemes that swindle the American people out of millions of dollars yearly.

Larry Brown, visiting for the day in a nearby city on business, was just starting for home in his car. As he stepped on his starter a light delivery truck drew up beside him and stopped.

"Hey, Budd!" called the driver. "You wouldn't be interested in a real bargain, would you?"

"What kind of a bargain?" asked Larry.

"Look here," said the stranger, and he held out a slip of paper. "Do you know what that is?"

"Of course," said Larry, scanning the slip. "It's a certified check for $225."

"A lady just gave me that," the truckman went on, "for a sable scarf I delivered to her."

Larry shifted his gears. "That doesn't mean anything to me," he said.

"Listen, Budd," said the truckman, confidentially. "I deliver furs for a company downtown, see? They sent me to deliver a sable scarf and get this check. But—and get this—in packing the fur they made a mistake, and put in TWO scarfs! Just asked Hone's the other one. . . . And I'll sell it to you cheap!" He brought out a beautiful scarf and placed it in Larry's hands. "Ain't it a honey!" he said.

Larry looked at the scarf and stroked the beautiful fur. "It's nice, all right," he said. But it isn't yours."

The truckman laughed. "What do you care?" he asked. "The firm I work for has all kinds of dough, and they only pay me twelve bucks a week! Think of that And me with a wife in the hospital! . . . Why shouldn't I pick up a few dollars if I can? I can use it, plenty! . . . Listen," and he related a pathetic story to Larry.

Larry hesitated for a moment. "Don't know that I blame you much, at that," he said. "But I can't afford a scarf like that. It's too rich for my folks!"

"Who says you can't afford it?" the truckman demanded. "Naturally, I don't mean to ask you anything like $225! . . . But you've got a wife, or a sweetheart, haven't you?"

"Sure, I've got a wife," Larry replied. "And tomorrow just happens to be our anniversary, too!"

The truckman chuckled. "This'd sure make a swell present for the missus! Take it home and surprise her! Why, I'll let you have it for $125—only half the regular price!"

"Nope," said Larry. "I haven't that much cash on me."

"Now, look here," the man insisted. "I want your wife to have this scarf. Think how she'll appreciate a genuine sable for an anniversary present!"

"Yeah, I know. . . . But I haven't got that much."

"Well, how much have you got? . . . I want you to have the fur."

"I can give you—fifty dollars," said Larry.

The truckman demurred. "Gosh, Budd, I don't get a chance to make an extra dollar very often. But, give me a break, won't you! I need more than that for my wife's hospital bill right now! . . . Make it ninety, and I'll let you have it!" Larry finally bought the fur for $75.

"It's just a little present I bought for you," he told his wife that night. "I thought you might like it. . . ."

"It isn't what you give that counts," his wife replied. "It's knowing that you haven't forgotten—that makes me happy." Then she took the scarf out of the box. "Oh, Larry!" she exclaimed. "It's awfully nice!"

"A real sable scarf!" said Larry, proudly.

His wife looked at him sharply. "Did they sell it to you for that?" she demanded.

"Of course!" said Larry.

"Then you take it right back!" said his wife. "I'm awfully happy that you remembered me on our anniversary. But nobody can pass off a dyed rabbit skin for a sable scarf—on me or you—even if it is our anniversary!"

LOS ANGELES—Sam Stroller, University of Michigan dash man, is planning a career as a crooner. Movie Star Joe E. Brown says Sam has a good voice.

The battle is on—Erl Roman, famous sportsman, vs. 600 lbs. of savage, fighting, blue marlin! How would your nerves stand up to two hours of this?

ERL ROMAN LANDS A BIG ONE!

AQUAPLANE EXPERT, Miss Gloria Wheeden is a typical American outdoor girl. "Yes, I smoke," she says. "Like all my crowd, I enjoy Camels—especially at meal-times."

"WHEN I'M TIRED after a match or need extra energy, Camels give me a 'lift' in energy," says Joanna de Tuscan, U. S. Women's Foils Champion. "Camels do not make my throat harsh."

AS the Miami, Florida, "Herald" said of Erl Roman's struggle with the big fish (above): "The battle was tough. Erl had his hands full staying in the fishing chair." But a sporting spirit and healthy nerves kept Roman going. After a 2-hour fight, he landed the second-largest blue marlin ever taken on rod and reel. "Healthy nerves are necessary for keeping on top. Camels don't get on my nerves," Erl says. Above, right, Mr. Roman enjoys good digestion and a Camel after his tense fight. "I make it a point," he says, "to smoke Camels with my meals and after 'for digestion's sake.'" Smooth Blending of Costly Tobaccos. Camels are made from costlier tobaccos, in a matchless blend. A mild, cigarette for steady smoking that does not rasp the throat or upset the nerves.

Even with adoption of "lier" and "traitor" in regular diplomatic language, some European neighbors can't take a hint anymore. Although John L. Lewis and Tom Girdler were flying west at the same time, they took different ships. Seemed they just weren't on the same plane. Just at Japan's army and navy get a good fight started in their own backyard, some bully like Russia comes along and breaks it up with a border incident. A kiss was Stalin's reward for one of the North Pole pioneers, who wasn't given the alternative of the usual firing squad.
